Representatives of Every Luncheon Club in City Hear Chief Executive SPEAKS ON TAXES

Declares Three Cent Gasoline Duty Not Too High And Should Not Be Cut

INTRODUCED by Mrs. N. E. Mayhill, president of the Business and Professional Women's club, Governor C. C. Young addressed an audience of 500 Santa Ana service club men and women at St. Ann's Inn at noon today, outlining the financial status and future of the state government. The state executive told the group that his administration and all administrations which sincerely tried to act for the people were constantly trying to keep expenditures down to a minimum.

A friend of tax reduction, Governor Young declared:

"I am not sure that our method of taxation is the best one. I am not sure that we could not develop a better one. When we revise our system we want to be sure that the man with the small home or orchard will get a reduction in taxes. The tax on real estate, which the assessor naturally sees first, is rising faster than it should."

In speaking of the three cent gasoline tax he said:

"We don't want any more and we couldn't get along with less." The three cent tax, he said, is just enough to keep the state busy with its road program."

The governor pointed out that state expenditures in California are not increasing as rapidly as the average county or city expenditures. Population increases in the state amount to about nine and one quarter per cent every two years

Guns Banned By New S. F. Liquor Chief

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—(UP)—"Cease Firing." This was the command given today by Federal Prohibition Administrator William G. Walker to all prohibition agents in the San Francisco area.

In an attempt to prevent needless loss of life, Walker has forbidden all officers to use their guns unless their own lives are in danger or unless it is absolutely necessary to do so to stop a felon. Even shooting a revolver in the air is forbidden.

"The lives of too many peaceable citizens have been sacrificed in dry law enforcement by use of guns on the slightest provocation," Walker said.

Millionaire Theater Man to Be Arraigned Thursday On Attack Charges

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—(UP)—Search for an accomplice, said to have assisted Alexander Pantages, theater magnate, after the showman's asserted attack on Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer sought today by the district Attorney's office.

According to Robert Stewart, chief deputy district attorney, investigators are positive a man in a blue suit rushed to the mezzanine room following Miss Pringle's screams.

Stewart said he had information that the man made every effort to prevent Miss Pringle from escaping and that he lifted Pantages from the floor and helped him adjust his clothing.

Finally, Stewart declared, the man rushed Pantages up a short flight of steps to the theater man's private office.

Stewart said it was believed at

ENDURANCE FLYER IN AIR 27 HOURS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—(UP)—Donald L. Templeman, who took off from Mills field in a monoplane at 10:45 a. m. Monday to set a new solo endurance flight record, had been in the air 27 hours when he refueled over Mills field at 1 p. m. today.

Since he has been in the air Templeman has refueled four times singlehanded. The famous refueling plane Californian is keeping him supplied with gasoline.

The first refueling took place at 1:10 p. m. yesterday. Templeman took another supply at 7 p. m. and a third supply at 2:30 a. m. today, after having flown to Reno and back. At 8 a. m. he was taking on his fourth load of gasoline, operating the plane with one hand and holding the nozzle of the gasoline hose in the other hand.

EUNICE PRINGLE TELLS ABOUT GARDEN GROVE SCHOOL DAYS

EDITOR'S NOTE—In the second chapter of her graphic life story, Eunice Pringle, dancer and accuser of Alexander Pantages today describes her debut as a dancer in a dancing school revue, her high school days and her first boy friends. "I never had a sweetheart, though," she said.

By EUNICE PRINGLE

I can still recall with a thrill that night when our dancing school had its first recital before an admiring throng of parents and friends.

I danced. I had never danced so well before. And the audience—of course they were kind. They applauded me as I stood back stage, and I bowed.

Applause is an intoxicating thing. I think it was then that I began to wish really for the stage.

But I have never wanted to make it my career, but only

25,000 ATTEND LEGION PARLEY IN SAN DIEGO

Nomination of Officers for Coming Year Chief of Business Today

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 20.—(UP)—The nomination of officers for 1930 and the election of delegates to the national convention at Louisville, Ky., held the spotlight of interest today at the 16th annual convention of the California American Legion.

Approximately 25,000 Legionnaires and members of their families were in attendance. This was said to be the largest gathering to attend a Legion convention in the history of the state.

The former soldiers were addressed late yesterday by Burton Fitts, Los Angeles district attorney. Fitts, who was wounded in France during the World War, spoke on law enforcement and was cheered vigorously.

In the finals of the drum and bugle corps contest last night, Long Beach won first; Riverside was second; Los Angeles, third; South Pasadena, fourth; Pasadena, fifth; and Redlands, sixth.

Hollywood won the band contest with Stockton and Sacramento following in that order.

The women's drill competition ended with Van Nuys, first; Napa, second and Maywood, third.

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF NIGHT WATCHMAN

SANTA MARIA, Calif., Aug. 20.—(UP)—Authorities today were investigating the accidental death or murder of George Rustin, 60-year-old night watchman for the Santa Maria Valley railroad whose body was found late yesterday in five feet of water at the bottom of a sun hole.

The partial replacement of the sun hole cover, 10 feet from the floor of the death hole and out of reach of the victim, led to the belief today that Rustin had been murdered.

L. A. Supervisors Ask Civil Service Chief To Resign

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—(UP)—The resignation of A. C. Malone, president of the civil service and efficiency commission, was asked in a resolution passed yesterday by the county board of supervisors on grounds that his acute differences of opinion were disrupting the harmony of the commission. Malone had expressed the opinion that increases in the salaries of various city officials were excessive.

Councilman J. L. McBride suggested that the strip at the north of the tracks be left as it was shown in the plan but that that south of the tracks be increased another 30 feet to provide for two way traffic on this section. The idea met the approval of the body and the Improvement body representative said that he felt that could be arranged. Councilman Stanley Goode suggested that the property adjacent to the section that is being improved be taken in on the assessment district at a very low zoning rate, rather than receiving benefits without paying for any of the expense. The present plan provided that the assessment would be borne by the district east of Artesia.

It is not definable, even to myself, how I feel about it. I only know that during the last year I have come to want to dance behind the footlights more than anything else.

"But I mustn't forget my high school days in Garden Grove. How busy they were! I believe a high school student is the busiest person in the world.

And there were class meetings, and class parties and basketball and tennis and swimming. And, of course, studies.

Both Sides Of P.E. Tracks To Be Improved

Action Taken by City Dads On Recommendation of Manager, Engineer

THE West Fourth Street Improvement association, represented by James T. Carter, last night presented to the city council a plan for the improvement of West Fourth street from Artesia street west following the curve of the Pacific Electric right of way to West Fifth street that had been agreed upon by the Improvement association, the Pacific Electric and representatives of the city.

With a few suggested alterations, the council accepted the plan and ordered the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications and ascertain costs. The action was taken at the recommendation of City Manager W. G. Knox and City Engineer Clyde Jenkin, who have been working with the Improvement association and the electric railway company in an endeavor to find a plan that would meet all requirements.

The plan submitted last night was for a 28-foot paved strip on each side of the Pacific Electric right of way from Artesia to West Fifth street, with a four and a half foot strip on the outside of the paving for future expansion or such use as the city might wish to adopt, the transportation company agrees to maintain a 35-foot strip in the center, but this will not be paved and will be separated from the pavement on each side by a curb. The poles carrying the lines of the electric line will be moved to the center of their right of way between the double tracks. The spur to the Santa Ana Lumber company, according to the plan, will take off at Fifth street and run parallel to the present line outside of the public street that will be opened. This spur will also be extended to the site of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company plant when they are ready for it, it was indicated last night.

No provisions for a hook up of the extension with Century boulevard, the highway planned from Los Angeles to the coast, has been made in the present plan, Carter said last night when asked concerning this, other than that it could swing on around the Amling Brothers nursery and connect west of that. The present plan skirts the Amling property at the northeast corner.

Councilman J. L. McBride suggested that the strip at the north of the tracks be left as it was shown in the plan but that that south of the tracks be increased another 30 feet to provide for two way traffic on this section. The idea met the approval of the body and the Improvement body representative said that he felt that could be arranged. Councilman Stanley Goode suggested that the property adjacent to the section that is being improved be taken in on the assessment district at a very low zoning rate, rather than receiving benefits without paying for any of the expense. The present plan provided that the assessment would be borne by the district east of Artesia.

Dr. Snook Placed In Death Row In Ohio Penitentiary

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 20.—(UP)—The $1,000,000 libel suit against Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former U. S. assistant attorney general, and Current News Features company, filed here yesterday by Gus O. Nations, former chief of federal prohibition enforcement in the St. Louis district, will be tried in duplicate in Washington, D. C. Nations indicated here today.

The petition asks $500,000 actual and $500,000 punitive damages growing out of a series of articles written by Mrs. Willebrandt on prohibition enforcement now being published in serial form by newspaper subscribers of the syndicate.

Dr. Snook will be electrocuted shortly after sundown on November 29, the day after Thanksgiving.

TUSTIN RANCH OWNER GIVES DAM OPINIONS

Ardent Supporter of Lower Site Would Favor Upper Under Conditions

WELLTON, Ariz., Aug. 20.—(UP)—Tragedy entered the women's air derby of the 1929 National air race early today when the body of Marvel Crosson, 25, one of America's best known feminine pilots, was found near the wreckage of her plane in the wild country six miles north of here.

A searching party, which had spent the night beating through brush more than 10 feet high, reported the discovery of Miss Crosson's body to the sheriff's office.

Miss Crosson was found about 200 feet from the spot where her craft crashed, indicating that she had jumped.

Her parachute was not opened and it was believed that it either failed to work or that she left the ship too late to permit it to open.

The body, according to searchers, struck the ground with such force as to make it almost unrecognizable. Her plane was completely demolished.

Miss Crosson, with 18 other entrants in the $25,000 race from Santa Monica, Calif., to Cleveland, left San Bernardino, first overnight control of the competition, early yesterday morning.

She passed over Calexico, Calif., as required and headed toward Phoenix, Ariz., second overnight stop.

Ranchers near Wellton reported seeing a plane drop into the underbrush near the Gila river bed and when Miss Crosson failed to reach Phoenix, a search was made at the upper site.

Members of the sub-committee, who attended last night's meeting were Shafer, H. A. Lake, Garden Grove, chairman; Mrs. Susanna Bixby Bryant, Santa Ana canyon, secretary; James Irving Jr., of the Irvine ranch, and John Tuffee, of Placentia.

The committee has not reached any decision in its work and will not make known its findings until it makes its report to the general committee. It has found in the report of Paul Bailey, former flood control engineer for the district; and the minutes of the meetings of the board of supervisors and advisory committee its chief source of information as to investigations on the upper site.

The minutes have shown what efforts were made in connection with the project and also have shown what instructions were given to Bailey by the supervisors for carrying on his work. It is said that the sub-committee has found that the minutes showed the supervisors to have been disinterested in the matter and that they stressed the factors of safety, economy and performance rather than the question of location of the proposed dam.

The sub-committee will meet again on September 3, two days before the general meeting. Whether the group will be able to report on its findings at that time is a matter which cannot be determined at this time.

Marvel Crosson Killed As Plane Crashes During Cleveland Race

WELLTON, Ariz., Aug. 20.—(UP)—Capt. Roscoe Turner and three passengers are scheduled to leave shortly after midnight tonight in an attempted 18-hour passenger flight to Roosevelt Field, New York.

Flying a fast Lockheed Vega monoplane of the Nevada Airways, Turner plans to make seven-minute refueling stops at Albuquerque, N. M., at Tulsa, Okla., and at Cincinnati, O.

The ship is capable of 200 miles per hour. If the test is successful, the plane probably will be headed west immediately in an effort to better Capt. Frank Hawk's round-trip record.

Non-Stop Plane Expected To Arrive at Home Port This Afternoon

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 20.—(UP)—Zooming over the crest of the Continental divide, the "Sun God," transcontinental nonstop endurance plane piloted by Nick Mamer and Art Walker, completed a successful nonstop flight from Spokane to New York and return, when it arrived over the field here at 1:50 p. m. today.

Officials at the field were not immediately sure whether Mamer intended to land or to keep flying in an effort to establish a new endurance record.

Miss Crosson, with 18 other entrants in the $25,000 race from Santa Monica, Calif., to Cleveland, left San Bernardino, first overnight control of the competition, early yesterday morning.

She passed over Calexico, Calif., as required and headed toward Phoenix, Ariz., second overnight stop.

Ranchers near Wellton reported seeing a plane drop into the underbrush near the Gila river bed and when Miss Crosson failed to reach Phoenix, a search was made at the upper site.

The extreme wildness of the country where she was reported down made progress difficult.

The plane and her body were located early today in a ravine near the Gila River bed.

The searching parties had to bathe their way through thick underbrush of arrow weed and mesquite cles over the airport. It had been in the air more than 100 hours.

A note dropped for the National Air Derby association, Spokane, Wash., said: "Everything O.K. for 2 o'clock. Will discuss our plans over the Spokane airport by messenger droppers."

Mamer planned to reach Spokane, the starting point of his nonstop refueling flight to New York and return, at 2 p.m., P.S.T.

Another note, addressed to Butte, said: "Hello, everybody in Butte. Sorry we can't land, the field looks so good. This sure looks like God's country again."

The two pilots declared they were feeling good, having averaged two hours sleep in each 24.

The refueling plane, which met the Sun God at Belgrade this morning, was loaded with gasoline here for the refueling contact over Missoula. Fifty gallons would be given the Sun God there, Wilson declared.

Mamer and Walker reached Miles City at 9:50 o'clock last night, but did not continue west because of poor visibility. They circled over Miles City until daylight, when 20 gallons of gas were lowered to their plane in five gallon cans. Wilson's refueling ship, which flew to Belgrade from Missoula early today, met the Sun God and made a perfect contact while 75 gallons were fed the endurance plane by hose.

During my senior year, I was editor-in-chief of the "Garden Grove high school annual, was on the student government jury, played the lead in the senior class play and was valedictorian of my class.

I don't mean to boast, I mean only to show how busy I was.

And of course I took these things very seriously.

To me, then a high school senior, was a very important person indeed.

Gets Out Annual

While we were getting out that annual, I scolded and bossed and bossed and fussed like a fussy old woman. Oh yes, I felt my great responsibilities, all right!

Mother was my best friend in those days. She still is. She was teaching in the Garden Grove high school and we went to school together, every morning.

We went home together every evening. She was always a lot of fun. My girl friends liked her—and my boy friends, too.

And I mean the term "boy friends" in the old, natural way—not as the term is used these days.

I have been questioned and questioned about the boys I have known and the sweethearts I have had.

Never In Love

That's funny, because really and honestly, I have never been in love and I have never had a sweetheart.

When I was little, boys were to me noisy individuals with big front teeth and adenoids who pulled one's hair and threw those wads of paper elegantly termed "split balls" in school.

As I grew older, boys became a necessary accessory at a party or a dance.

I never had a "beau" to escort me to a party until I was a senior in high school.

My mother wouldn't allow it. She went to these parties herself.

All of my friends loved her and she made the most wonderful "chaperone."

Not the stern-faced, holler-than-thou kind, but a jolly, friendly chaperone the boys teased and the girls confided in.

Of course, once in a while, I thought she was foolish not to let me go out with a boy alone, but I was never sufficiently interested in so doing to raise a rumpus.

My first beau in high school and the executive stated that his administration was trying to keep increases in expenses down to a rate below nine and one quarter per cent.

He reiterated the administration policy of taking over about 600 miles of Southland roads in the state secondary system, pointing out that he believed the inclusion of new roads in the south should be about three or four times as rapid as in the north.

In referring to the budget for the department of agriculture the governor said that emergency appropriations for protecting the state against possible appearance of the Mediterranean fly might have to be made. He declared that the appearance of the fly here would be unthinkable.

Next week, said the executive, a committee will be in the South to select a site for the new state hospital authorized by the last legislature. He pointed out also that a new prison for boys from 18 to 24 years of age will be built in the south.

In outlining the budget history of the state he recalled that the budget system was inaugurated in 1922 under a constitutional amendment voted by the people. In the first two budgets, he said, it was not pretended to give all expenditures of the state, and pointed out that he had felt the constitution required a more detailed estimate of expenses. This was simply a difference in interpretation of the amendment between him and those working with him and the administration then in Sacramento, he stated. He mentioned the matter because he wished to show that the increase in the budget, from about $103,000,000 to approximately

FLIGHT RESUMED

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 20.—(UPI)—The ranks depleted by death and faltering airplanes, the remaining entrants in the women's air derby of the national air races continued on their way to Cleveland, O., today.

PROBE STARTED

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 20.—(UPI)—Investigation of the death of Marvel Crosson and of charges of sabotage made by participants in the women's air derby was begun today by Floyd J. Logan, chairman of the National Air meet here.

A statement from Logan said: "I have asked Yuma to report if there is any foundation for rumors that there had been tampering with any of the contesting planes and to lay the facts before the prosecuting attorney in the district that he might take immediate action against the fliers who would do such a thing."

"We have wired the people in the department of agriculture for the information that the emergency appropriations for protecting the state against possible appearance of the Mediterranean fly might have to be made. He declared that the appearance of the fly here would be unthinkable."

Logan said he personally would direct an inquiry of sabotage charges on arrival of the women fliers here.

Warner Brothers, Paramount Stocks Exchanged In Deal

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(UPI)—Unofficial reports here today indicated that a merger of Paramount Famous Lasky corporation and Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., had been consummated through a proposed change of stock on a basis of 1 1/4 shares of Paramount for 1 1/2 shares of Warner Brothers.

The units, under the plan reported today, would retain separate identities and all theaters under the joint control would be operated by Public Theaters, Inc., Paramount's theater-operating subsidiary.

By $200,000 when he came to office, was not entirely an increase in expenditure. The former budget of $103,000,000 did not include items of actual expense which brought the total outlay to $181,162,748.54, he said.

Earl Morrow opened the meeting, passing the gavel to Ralph Smedley, of the Rotary club. The gavel was then handed successively to George S. Smith, Kiwanis club; Lyle Anderson, Lions club; Guy Gilbert, Breakfast club; Dr. Robert C. Currie, 20-30 club; Asa Hoffman, Realtors' board; W. C. PLANNING BODY WORK TOLD IN ANNUAL REPORT

Zoning regulations together with various amendments pertaining to the zoning ordinance of the city, tree planting for streets, maps prepared for the use of planning commission and city council, street and highway plans and subdivisions were all considered during the fiscal year of the Santa Ana Planning commission, according to a report of the year's activities, presented last night to the city council.

In presenting the detailed report, the secretary, Clara R. Cushman, gave the personnel of the planning commission as it was at the beginning of the year, when ex officio members were Mayor Frank L. Purinton, Stanley E. Goode, councilman; Charles D. Swanner, city attorney, and Clyde Jenken, city engineer, and four appointed members were S. H. Finley, president; N. A. Neff, George R. Wells and Mrs. Cushman.

In July, both Finley and Neff resigned, upon which the city council reorganized the body following the provisions of the planning act passed by the state legislature, in 1927, and increased the membership to nine, by appointing Leonard G. Swales, Fred Crowell and Mrs. Dean Colver. At the beginning of 1929, Swales resigned and Otto R. Haan was named to fill the vacancy. George Wells was reelected as president since the resignation of Finley.

No Executive Powers

The commission, which meets on the first and third Monday afternoons of each month in the council chambers in the city hall, has no executive or mandatory powers, according to the report, which declares its function to be that of recommending to the city council "such action as seems necessary and proper to promote present and future physical welfare of the city." Such recommendations are then accepted or rejected as the council sees fit. According to the report, the acceptances have been greater in the majority.

In regard to zoning activities, the report states that the commission has received and considered 59 written applications under the zoning ordinance, of which 36 have been partitioned for change of zone and 23 for a special use. Of the former, 16 were disapproved on the ground that the proposed change was contrary to the best interests of the affected neighborhood. Eight were referred to the city council as being without the jurisdiction of the commission. Five were tabled as having been submitted without such plans as required by the zoning ordinance or because they were not fully presented or had been dropped by the applicant before their completion.

Three changes in the zoning ordinance itself were made on the recommendation of the commission. That block bound by First, Second and Birch streets and Broadway and the north half of the block between Birch, Broadway, First and Walnut streets were rezoned to a commercial district, the territory lying between Seventeenth street, Santa Clara avenue, Lincoln and Mabury streets was changed from heavy industry to residential and the newly opened section of North Sycamore, between Washington avenue and Seventeenth street, was created a court and apartment house zone.

Board's Policy Explained

The policy of the commission was explained in requiring the buildings to be set back far enough to conform to other buildings in the neighborhood. A setback of 10 feet on either side was recommended for North Sycamore, between Washington avenue and Seventeenth street, where the fact that the stretch is zoned for apartment houses indicated that this distance would be sufficient.

Provision for the planting, care and preservation of trees in parks and parkways was made in an ordinance adopted by the council in October, 1928. The engineering department then made a survey of the trees already growing along the streets and a proposal has been made by the planning commission to provide for future parkway planting, street by street, as new ones are opened, or as it is found necessary to remove any tree already growing.

Mrs. Colver is supervisor of this work with the assistance of the city engineering department. Under the ordinance adopted the city engineer acts as forester and has charge of the executive side of the work. One of the planning commission's recommendations was that whenever new streets are opened a street planting scheme is to be incorporated in the proceedings.

Jenken Prepares Maps

Both the commission and the council have the use of various maps prepared under the direction of Clyde Jenken, city engineer, including a deed restriction map showing every lot in the city and whether it is controlled by building restrictions or setback; a tree map showing all parkways and every variety of tree planted therein; a proposed street map or survey of all proposed widenings and traffic control and streets for new subdivisions; a zoning map annexed to that particular ordinance; and an improvement map showing types of buildings on every lot in the city.

In addition there are three special maps showing proposed street extensions, Grand avenue north to the city limits; Flower street, from Sixth to Eighth streets, and West Fourth street, west of Artesia street. Four subdivision maps were approved during the year, including the addition to the Masonic cemetery, outside the city limits. Of the subdivisions opened during the year, a portion of one was thrown back into acreage upon request to the commission and city council.

The report points out that such matters as street improvement openings, future widenings and traffic problems are mainly without the commission's jurisdiction and are handled directly through the city council and the engineering department.

Keene to be here all week.

Another prosecution announcement said that Roy Keene had changed his original story regarding the asserted attack and had given a statement favorable to the state.

Keene, it was said, declared he went to the mezzanine room under Pantages' orders and rearranged the room, where the Pringle girl met Pantages, to make it resemble a business office.

first that the mysterious man was Roy Keene, assistant manager of the Pantages theater, or one of two publicity men.

The deputy district attorney said that questioning of the three employees had convinced the prosecution that another man helped "cover up" for Pantages.

Every effort will be made to find the suspect within 36 hours, Stewart said. Pantages will be arraigned Thursday.

Developments in the case came thick and fast yesterday.

When Pantages appeared in superior court for arraignment his attorneys asked for a delay in pleading and the court granted a stay until Thursday afternoon.

This was followed by an announcement of the district attorney's office that the state held a lengthy deposition by a former Pantages usherette, who described two alleged occasions when the showman made improper advances.

The girl, designated by the district attorney for the present as "Miss X" claimed that she gave up her job in

Phone Chief Interest Of Film Canine

SPRINGDALE, Aug. 20.—The telephone has been chosen by Cassinova, a ruddy Chow dog, to be his special charge.

No telephone call is disregarded by Cassinova, who rushed at its first ring to whatever part of the house his owners, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Crane, of Springdale, chance to be, and backs until they answer the call.

Cassinova was originally owned by a Hollywood actor, according to Mrs. Crane, but a weeding out of the kennels resulted in his being given away, and ultimately reaching his present home.

The structure will be of reinforced concrete, the floor reinforced with triangular mesh, overhead doors and divided by a fire wall. It will contain five stalls, a work bench, pit and wash rack. It will be 36 by 70 feet, and the cost, which was figured at about $5000, will be lessened by the use of a quantity of material from the old garage. It was voted to build according to this plan, providing it was approved by Superintendent Mitchell.

Bids for painting and outside woodwork and metal were considered. One bid received was for $580, while another was for $230. Because of the great difference, LeRoy Lyon was asked to look into the matter further.

Bids for steel pipe to connect with the reservoir are being received and A. Christensen was appointed a committee of one to take charge of this.

Alterations are being made in the cafeteria, the serving table being advanced and shelves installed behind it, while more tables are being put in the south room and a door cut through to this room. The tables, floor and benches will be painted before school opens.

Reginald Kuhns, full time bus driver, was granted an increase in salary of $10. Because the janitor work has been increased by the addition of two new class rooms, it was thought advisable to hire an assistant janitor, who will also assist in the supervision of the boys' rest rooms.

CONTRACTS FOR CITY ASKED TO PAVING, LIGHTS PRESENT $1000 ARE AWARDED TO COUNTY FAIR

Bids for two improvement jobs were opened and the work awarded by the city council at its meeting in the city hall last night and as a result the construction of the ornamental lighting system for the southeast section of the city and the paving of Grand avenue and Second street soon will be under way.

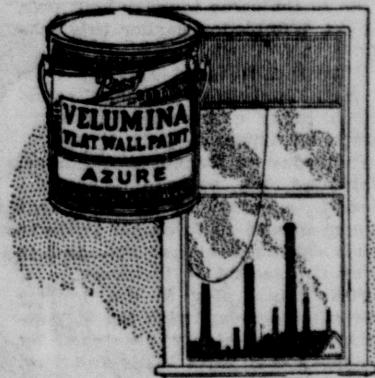

Six bids were submitted on the lighting system installation with the contract being awarded to the Pacific Engineering and Construction company as the lowest responsible bidder at a price of $6468. This price was over $1000 under the engineer's estimate and will provide the district with the ornamental system at a cost of 95 cents per front foot. The council had guaranteed property owners in the district some time ago that the assessments would not run over $1.05 per front foot. Other bids submitted for the work were as follows:

Gilbert-Weston-Stearns company, $6420; Robertson Electric company, $6288; W. Ray Hobson, $22,896; Osborne company, $7340; Walker and Martin company, $7450.

The paving contract went to the Griffith company, with a bid of $7791.35. The engineer's estimate for this work was $10,210.40. Other bids on the paving contract were as follows:

Osborne company, $11,279.60; Steele Finley, $10,151.72.

Both improvements were ordered on the recommendation of the city engineer.

ton, Henry Ford's champion old time fiddler, for permission to use Birch park for a public concert, at which he would take a silver offering, was denied by the council.

The request of A. R. Rutledge for permission to erect a Gospel tent in the Mexican district was referred to the fire chief for action with the recommendation that the location be specified.

The check of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, amounting to $4382.93, in payment of their franchise tax for the last year was accepted and ordered placed in the city treasury.

The following bills were ordered paid: Frederick H. Ely, $310; Wilson-Beaver Construction company, $1182; Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, $500.

The report of the city planning commission, covering its activities for the last year, was accepted and referred to the finance committee, as was the monthly report of the county health officer.

Property owners of the County Club Gardens tract presented a petition, signed by about 20 persons, asking that curbs be installed in the streets in their tract. The matter was referred to the city engineer.

Permission was granted to J. W. Estes to substitute a surety bond of $2000 covering the incomplete portion of improvements he is making in place of the $4000 bond that was filed before the work was started.

Setback Is Asked

A petition of property owners for the establishment of a 10-foot setback on East Washington avenue, from Main street to Lincoln street, on both sides of the street to conform to that recently established for the east end of the street was referred to the city planning commission.

Acting on the recommendation of the planning commission, the council ordered the posting on both sides of the 700 block on Cypress street for apartments and courts. The action was taken at the request of Sam Jones, who requested posting one lot in this district for the erection of a four-family apartment.

Hearings for protests on several projects were scheduled for last night but no protests were presented. Favorable action then was taken on improvements for North Ross street, establishing setback lines on East Washington avenue, posting a lot in the 500 block on South Van Ness street for erection of a duplex, and posting streets for an office and gasoline storage tank for Perry Ballard.

The council took formal action accepting the work on North Sycamore street, which recently was completed. It also adopted a resolution ordering bonds for Garfield street improvements.

Ordinances were adopted changing the zone at Bristol street and Washington avenue from residential to neighborhood business and changing the zoning requirements to enable the school board to locate its buildings without making further permission on the part of the council necessary.

The tax ordinance was given first reading and referred to the city attorney.

An invitation from Mayor L. E. Miller, mayor of Anaheim, for members of the council to attend the Spanish night entertainment in the Anaheim park and offering reserved seats was accepted and eight tickets requested.

TOMATO PASTE FACTORY OPENS ON WEDNESDAY

ANAHEIM, Aug. 20.—Mechanics

are rushing work on the newly established tomato paste factory on the Santa Fe tracks so that it may be in readiness for operations tomorrow morning. The cannery will be in a position to utilize 80 tons of tomatoes a day.

According to A. Minnino, manager and owner of the factory, who came here from New Orleans, scarcity of tomatoes here may make the purchase of tomatoes from the San Fernando valley and the Escondido district necessary.

Ten large copper kettles for canning the paste are being put into place. These kettles cost from $800 to $1000 and have a capacity of 450 gallons.

It is expected that about 25 workers will be employed the first day and that this number will be increased as the season advances.

PASTOR GOES EAST TO FACE CHARGES

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 20.—(UPI)—The Rev. James Empingram, Episcopal minister, is enroute east to face charges brought against him by the Episcopal diocese, his wife, the former Mrs. Vaslaf Safron, said here today.

The marriage of Mrs. Vaslaf Safron and the Rev. Mr. Empingram is said to have taken place in Mexico in June, shortly after he secured a divorce from his first wife.

Mrs. Empingram declared charges that Dr. Empingram had practiced medicine without authority were absurd.

The charges against Dr. Empingram alleged that the minister forced lightly clad women to appear before him on the pretext he was giving them medical examinations.

HELEN WILLS HEAVY FAVORITE FOR TITLE 'Consolation Series' Delayed

MACKS OF OTHER PENNANT WINNING YEARS

Here is the great Philadelphia baseball club of 1914 that Connie Mack wrecked to build anew. Three of the players on that team still are in the big leagues—Bressler, Pennock and Schang. The players are, left to right, top row: Eddie Murphy, Bressler, Pennock, Walsh, Wycoff, Shawkey; second row: Bender, McAvoy, Thompson, Coombs, Baker, H. Davis; third row: Strunk, Lapp, Thomas, Mack, Plank, Bush, Oldring; lower row: Davies, Schang, Kopf, Mascot Louis Van Zeldt, Barry, McInnis and Collins.

(This is the second of a series of articles on the personality of Connie Mack, who is leading his Philadelphia Athletics to the American league pennant.—Sports Editor's note.)

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—Connie Mack thinks his Philadelphia Athletics are in. To interpret this for those who are not conversant with baseball parlance it means that the venerable and beloved leader of the Athletics thinks that his club is going to be in the world series this fall for the first time in 10 years.

Mr. Mack will not come out and say flatly that he is going to lead a team into the series, but there are other ways of saying things. "Your ball club is going very good, Mr. Mack," we said to him in his office.

Was Sick Man

"Yes, we have a very good ball club and we have survived some bad breaks and a slump or two," he said. "I am looking to the future with more confidence than I had in the spring."

"It appeared in print that I deserted my ball club in disgust in Florida. But that is not a fact. I did leave the club to go home because I was a very sick man and didn't feel capable of making the exhibition games. I had a severe attack of the flu before I went south and I didn't recuperate as quickly as I thought I would. So I decided to go home and get a complete rest."

"But to tell you the truth I wasn't too enthusiastic about my ball club before the season started. I even had doubts about it until the last western trip. But the boys showed their spirit on that trip."

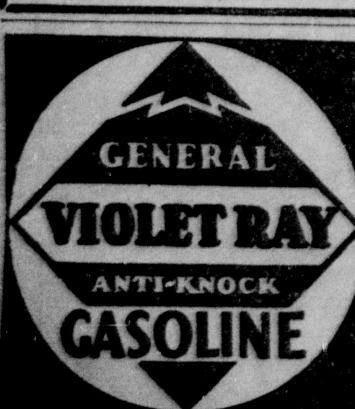

Cy Filled in Nicely
"Road trips are always a strain on a ball club. Especially when the club is setting the pace. Then we had on that last trip a number of casualties. Cochrane, Haas and Boley were out of the game and I feared that it would dishearten the boys. But Cy (Perkins) went in behind the bat and did most beautiful work and rallied the boys around him."

"It isn't true then," I asked him, "that you sent an emergency call for Cochrane to come back to the team, crippled or not?"

"I did call him back to the team," he said. "But not exactly for that reason. I was figuring on an emergency that would arise if Perkins had the misfortune to

WALKER AGAIN WITHIN REACH OF LIGHT HEAVY RING TITLE AFTER VICTORY OVER LOMSKI

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—For Mickey Walker, opportunity knocks more than once. Beaten back by Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight champion, in his first quest for the 175-pound title at Chicago several months ago, the middleweight titleholder today was again within reach of the light heavyweight crown as a result of two unexpected turns of fistic affairs.

Walker won a 10-round decision from Leo Lomski. "Aberdeen Assassin" and highly regarded light heavyweight contender, in the Municipal stadium last night before a crowd of 25,000, Walker, weighing 166, conceded Lomski nearly seven pounds in weight and several inches in height and reach. Lomski weighed 172 3/4.

Loughran's recent decision to abdicate the light heavyweight throne when he was suddenly tossed into a heavyweight match with Jack Sharkey next month because of Max Schmeling's troubles will leave the 175-pound division without a champion.

While waiting for Loughran formally to renounce his title, Walker has staked a strong claim to it by conquering Lomski, who had Loughran on the floor twice for counts of nine each in a 175-pound title bout in January, 1928.

Jack Kearns, dapper manager of Walker, already is calling the 175-pound title for Walker. If Walker gains recognition in the light

YES, WE ARE ALL GLAD
BUCKY HARRIS, although he hasn't made a sensation of the Detroit Tigers this season, is yet one of the most interesting men in baseball and one of the closest friends of the game.

"Aren't you glad now you didn't pick us for the pennant," he said to me. "I told you, didn't I, in the spring that I didn't think we were set for this year. Too much experimenting in important places. But we'll be much better next year."

"Dissension? Not that I know of. But I wouldn't want to give the official answer on that. You ask the boys on the club. That's where the real information comes from."

JIMMY NEEDS EXPERIENCE
Speaking about baseball in general the young leader of the Tigers said he thought Al Simmons of the Athletics is a better hitter than his young teammate, Jimmy Foxx, who has been one of the swatting sensations of the season.

"I mean," he explained, "that Simmons is harder to handle in a pinch. He's older and more experienced and he is of the temperament to act on his judgment."

THE BABE IS THE BEST
"But the hitter in the league is still the Babe. He nearly tore the head of Marty McManus from his shoulder with a line drive down third the last time he was in Detroit. That big boy isn't through. Not this year, anyway."

MEUSEL BEST THROWER
Harris has two great throwing arms hanging on his outfielders, Rice and Johnson, but he rates them behind Bob Meusel of the Yankees.

"There are other great throwers

RIVERSIDE AND POMONA TIE IN AMERICAN LOOP

The proposed "consolation series" between the second place teams of the Orange County and American Night Baseball leagues encountered an unexpected snag today. As a result, the Santa Ana Stars, runners-up in the Orange county circuit, must wait at least two weeks before engaging in any such competition.

Pomona and Riverside completed their American league seasons tied for the championship and will hold either a three-out-of-five or a two-out-of-three series for the right to meet Long Beach for the Southern California streamer.

Pomona last night defeated Colton, 1 to 0, to go into a deadlock with the Riverside aggregation. Chico Sabella pitched for Pomona and held the Colton squad to three scattered hits. Riverside finished its regular season Friday, winning in Arlington, 7 to 0.

The Pomona-Riverside playoff is not scheduled to begin until August 28 as the losers will not be ready for the "consolation series" with Santa Ana until early in September. This may be too late for the Stars.

Santa Ana lost only four games in more than 30 starts this summer and the players are loath to quit now. They are anxious for a few exhibition contests before checking in their uniforms but the series with the American league runner-up looks far away so the management may line up games with Colton and Arlington of the American division. Neither of these teams have played here this year. The Stars may also go after a practice affair with Long Beach, their three time conquerors.

The situation will be discussed at length when the Commission of the Santa Ana Night Baseball association meets Thursday noon.

TIERNANS, ICEMEN WILL CLASH THURSDAY

The Tiernans Typewriter company and the Santa Ana Ice company will mix in the Bowl Thursday in a game that officially completes the Santa Ana City league schedule. This will be a contest that was postponed from early in the season.

If the Tiernans win they will clinch the second half of the race but if the Icemen succeed in knocking off the undefeated league leaders they will give the Hawley Sportsmen a tie for the championship, in which case a play-off would be necessary.

George Lackaye, manager of the Tiernans, will take his hustling squad to Garden Grove tonight for a practice set-to with the Orange County league team of that city.

LONG BEACH, ORANGE IN CONTEST TONIGHT

Long Beach and Orange will meet in an Orange County Night league fuss at Long Beach tonight. The Acorns came into the race two weeks late and still must play two times once with Orange and once with Olive. If a miracle should happen and both Orange and Olive win, the Acorns would be tied with Santa Ana for the bunting. Long Beach, however, is regarded as the class of the league and figures to clinch its championship mathematically tonight.

MISS CRUICKSHANK LOSES IN SINGLES

Josephine Cruickshank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cruickshank of Santa Ana, was eliminated in the first round of the National Women's tennis tournament at Forest Hills, N. Y. yesterday.

Her conqueror was Mrs. Phoebe Watson of England, who triumphed in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1.

MISS CRUICKSHANK, young and comparatively inexperienced in major tournament play, has had the misfortune to draw outstanding opponents both times she has entered the national championships. Last year she encountered Helen Wills, the champion, in the first round.

Mrs. Watson, her opponent this year, is England's second ranking player.

ATTENTION MANIACS!

With August here and September near football can't be so far away. And then life will be life for a lot of souls who live in the fall and just exist the rest of the while.

Returning from a vacation we find on our desk a few misses that may cause a breath of life in the slumbering gridiron maniac.

No. 1—A card from "Tex" Oliver and Bill Cole, head coaches at Santa Ana and Tustin high schools, respectively. They are in Dallas, Tex., attending a school for football directors at Southern Methodist university that is being conducted by two celebrated wizards, Knute Rockne of Notre Dame and "Pop" Warner of Stanford. Warner, incidentally, is accompanied by "Chuck" Winterburn, his assistant, who used to coach in Santa Ana. Warner and Winterburn will head for Southern California at the conclusion of the scholastic routine. They will bless San Clemente and Santa Ana with their presence here heading for Stanford Farm.

No. 2—A pithy paragraph in Sid Ziff's column in a Los Angeles newspaper having to do with Jimmy Musick, former Santa Ana high school star. Completing a discourse on Don Moses, a University of Southern California backfield ace, Ziff comments succinctly but pointedly about our young Mr. Musick: "Playing along the same lines as Moses is Sophomore Musick. He is not music to enemy ears. He is one of those hairy-chested boys who are collegiate but look like piano movers. Musick ploughs like another Moses the same style. It is predicted forthwith that he will play many minutes as a Trojan regular."

No. 3—A stick from Orange to who has been knocking their ears off in the simon-pure division, but Mack figures to beat him after a close ride. Mack, undefeated at the southside arena, is far more experienced than the recent graduate from the amateur ranks. If there is an upset in any of the predictions, however, LeMon probably will provide it. He has the youth and the punch.

Travino may be a good one in disguise but his record is too obscure to warrant his selection over Moreno. It is true that Moreno is inconsistent but the Placentia

TENNIS QUEEN IMPRESSIVE IN QUICK VICTORY

FOREST HILLS, L. I., Aug. 20.—Only 32 players remain to contest the national women's tennis crown now worn by Helen Wills.

First round matches in the annual championship tournament at the West Side club shattered the hopes of another 32 players whose goal was the American title.

The defending champion today, if possible, a greater favorite than ever to retain the championship. The decisive manner in which Miss Wills disposed of Katherine La Marche, of Philadelphia, in two sets yesterday, was conclusive proof of the status of her game.

Those who are given to worry have turned their attention to Helen Jacobs, the sturdy California girl who was runner-up to Miss Wills in the same tourney last year, and at Wimbledon earlier this season.

Miss Jacobs faced Eleanor Goss of New York in her second round match today and there was every reason to expect a tense battle.

Yesterday in Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va., veteran, Helen the Second encountered an opponent strong enough to force her twice to deuce during the first set, and to carry the second to 10 games.

First round play in the doubles was started today with the 32 contestants teams highly heartened by the news that Miss Wills and Mrs. George Wightman, 1928 champions, would not defend their title.

Mrs. A. H. Chapin, of Springfield, Mass., was the second round opponent of Miss Wills today. Last year Mrs. Chapin gave Helen something to do during the first set. Her play this year, however, has been far below the 1928 standard.

Miss Betty Nutall, colorful British girl who lost four games in two sets to Miss Cecilia Reigel, of Philadelphia, faced Miss Gertrude Dwyer, of New York in her second round match.

SPEICH READY FOR ENDURANCE
TEST TAKEOFF

A Santa Ana plane, with a Santa Ana pilot at the controls and flying from a Santa Ana airport, is scheduled to take off on a flight next Friday noon that will make aviation history and carry the name of all three over the civilized world in news dispatches. Verne Speich today is flying his Zenith biplane over the Eddie Martin airport, getting accustomed to the "feel" of his mount, which he avers will carry him to a new world's record for a solo, non-refueling endurance flight. He completed tests last night which, according to engineers and officials at the Zenith Aircraft corporation plant, in Midway City, show his mount is capable of carrying him to the record.

"Keeping awake will be the biggest difficulty I will have to overcome," Speich declared today. "It will be easier to fall asleep while driving the plane than it is while driving a car and you know how easy that is sometimes. And if I do go to sleep—well that will be just too bad," he remarked with a grin. "I'm sure that I am going to break the record. The only thing aside from the sleep problem that will stop me is motor trouble—and we don't expect any of that. There will be gauges to check the gasoline consumption so that after I have been up awhile I can figure better what the chances will be. We believe now that with the total load of 514 gallons of gas and 25 gallons of oil the ship will make 48 hours in the air. The tests we made yesterday are checking out along that line."

Reveals Flight Menu

When asked about his food supply he announced a menu including fried chicken, chocolate bars, sandwiches and a generous supply of water, milk and coffee.

The tests made yesterday were watched by a crew from the Martin airport and also by officials of the Zenith Aircraft company. M. C. Boyd, engineer, and Sterling Price, president, were on hand while the initial load flights were being made. The tests included takeoffs and short flights with one-third, one-half and two-thirds full load capacity. From these carefully recorded figures the engineers noted the performance of the stock model ship under full load, which amounts to over two tons or 5659 pounds to be exact. This is made up of the weight of the plane itself, some 1950 pounds, the weight of the gas and oil equipment and pilot.

Water was used for making the ballast in the weight tests yesterday. A crew composed of Sol Spiegel, chief mechanic, and Gerald Price, draftsman, from the Zenith plant, worked hard at hauling the water to the plane from the Edison sub-station and pumping it into the big reserve tanks that have been built into the enclosed cabin in front of the pilot's cockpit. The cockpit, which will be home for two days and nights to Speich if he is successful in his attempt, is a roomy place, open to the sun and wind—and fog, if he encounters much of that. It has several added pieces of mechanism, such as the apparatus for greasing the rockers arms on the motor, pump for pumping the gas from the reserve tanks to the gravity feed wing tank in the center of the upper wing, and cables operating the dump valves which will almost instantaneously release the load in the big reserve tanks should an emergency arise.

The gasoline will be carried in three tanks—the regular wing tank of 46 gallons capacity, the forward reserve tank, which holds 258 gallons, and the rear reserve tank, with a capacity of 210 gallons.

Standard Model Ship

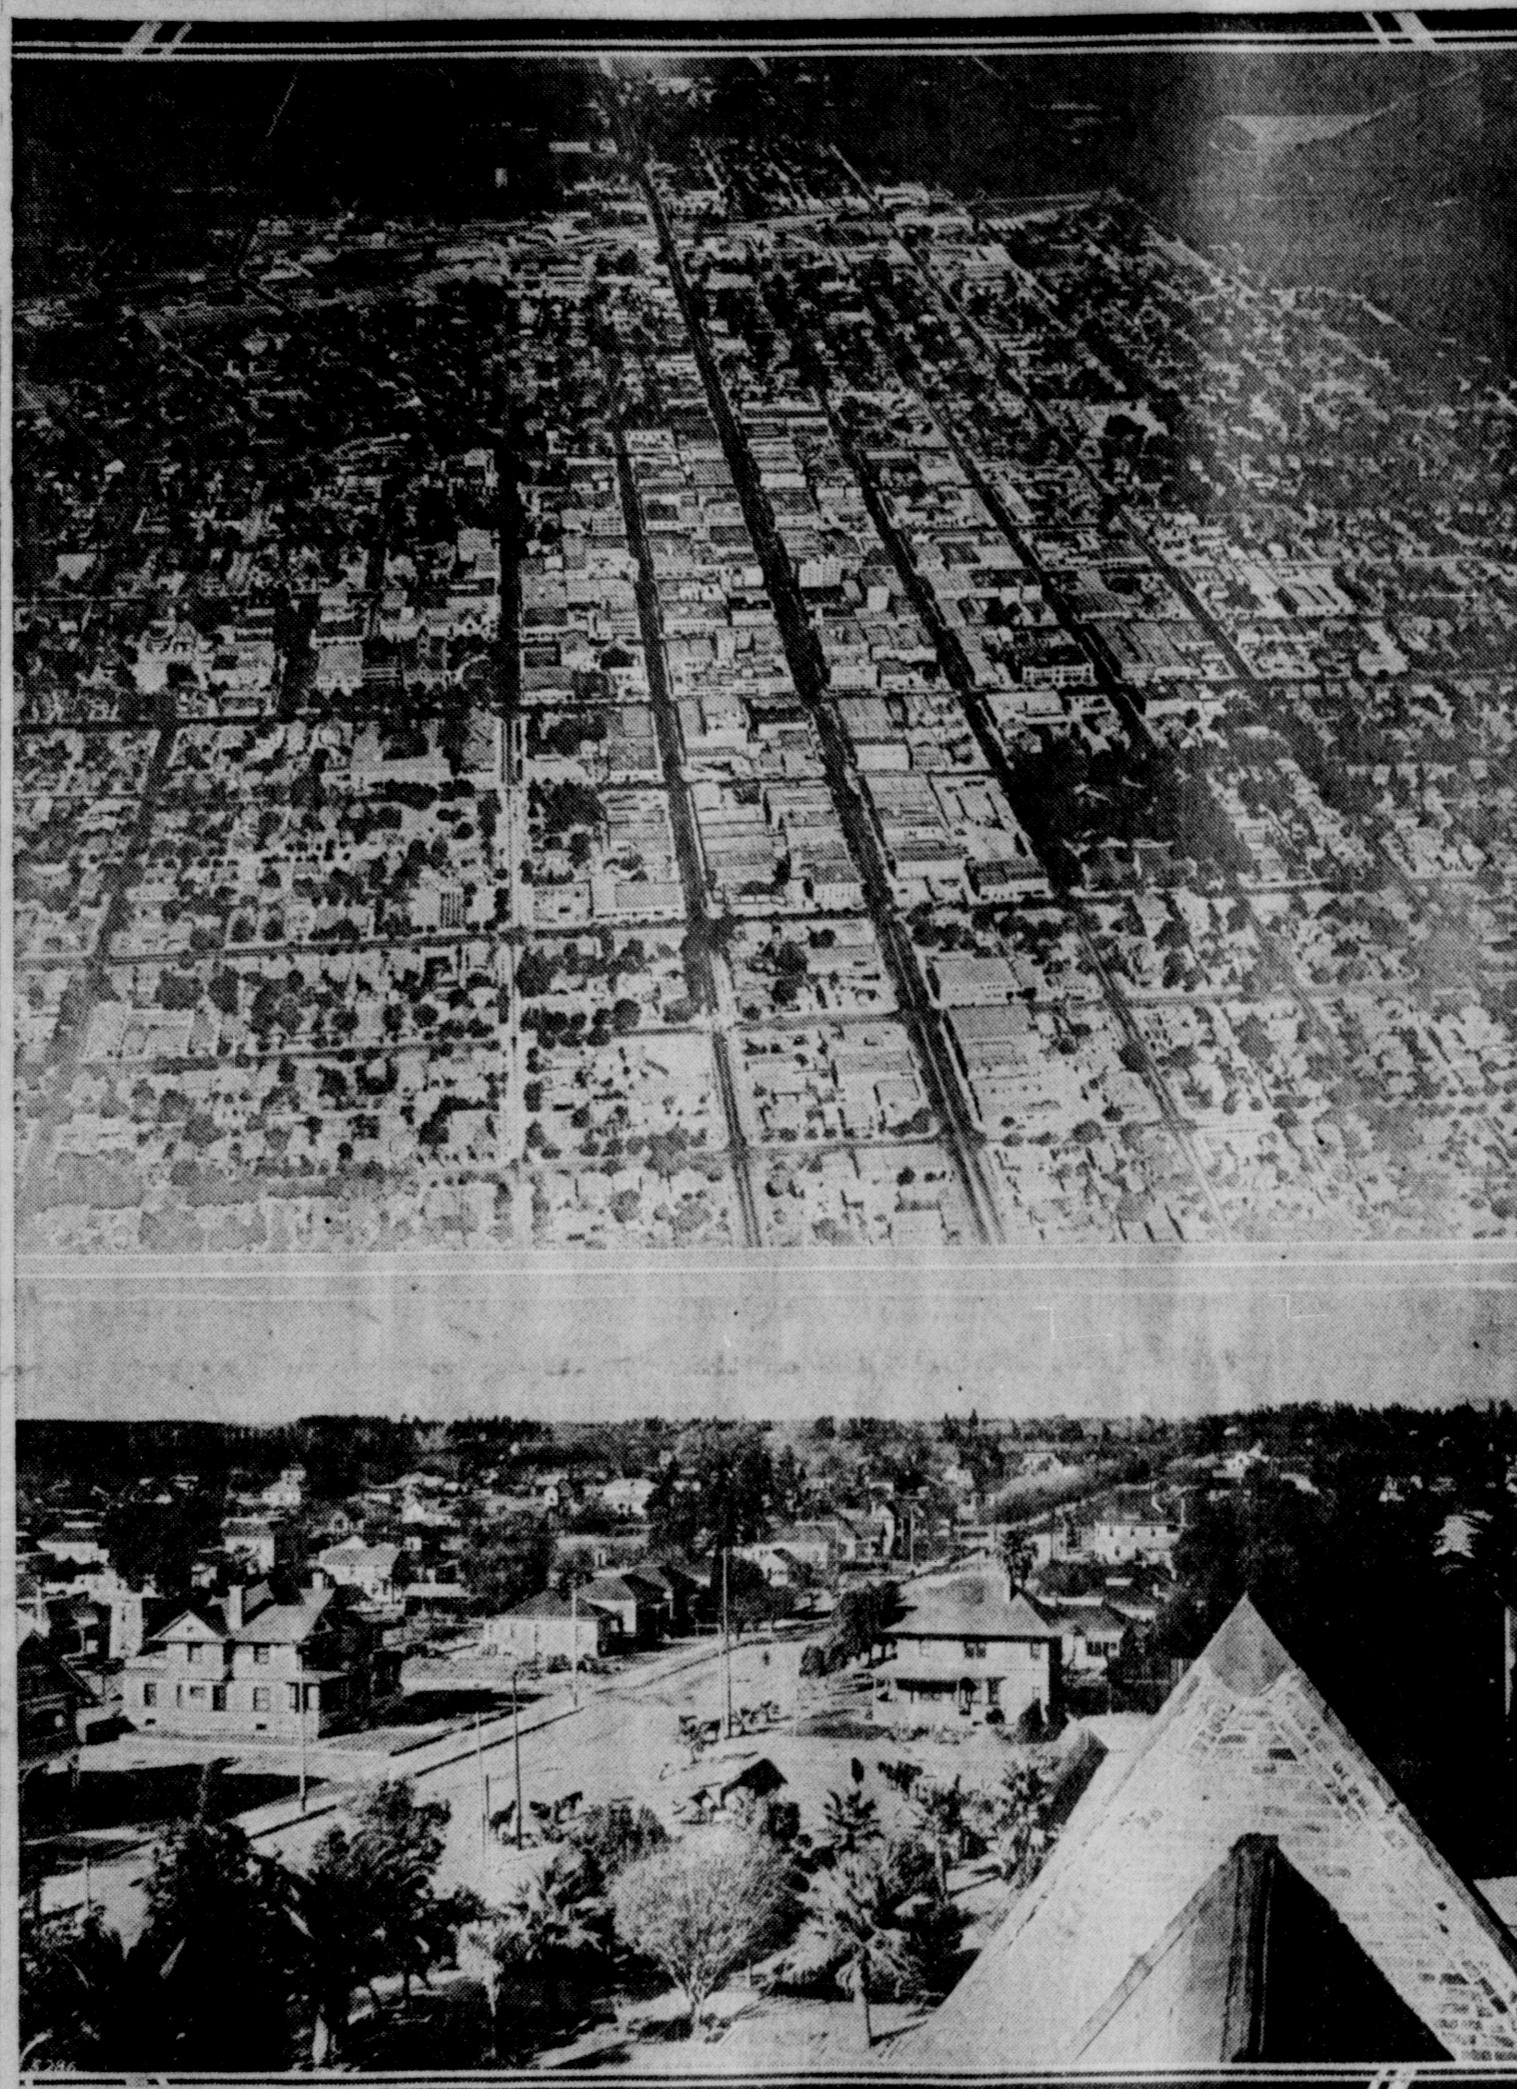

The ship is a standard model, with the only change being the addition of the big tanks in the cabin. The ship is the third one of this model built by the Zenith plant, which now is engaged in the manufacture of a fourth model in which the engineers believe some improvements have been added. A sister ship of the one that will make the endurance record attempt is in service in Alaska. The wing spread of the biplane which Speich hopes to pilot to a new record is 38 feet. It is 29 feet long and has 365 square feet of wing area. It is powered with a nine-cylinder, air-cooled Wright Whirling motor of 220 horsepower and carries an aluminum alloy propeller which will be set at 1850 revolutions per minute for the test. The pitch of the propeller is adjustable so that it may be changed to meet varying requirements such as top speed and climbing efficiency.

The ship has yellow wings and a red nose and blue fuselage. It carries the number X5782.

Weather reports will be carried to Speich daily while he is aloft by an other plane, which will have the message written on the

CITY OF SANTA ANA IN 1900—AND 29 YEARS LATER

In the upper picture shown below is Santa Ana taken by airplane of August 14. It shows practically the entire city and is so clear that many prominent buildings can be recognized. In the lower picture is Santa Ana taken from the top of the courthouse in 1900. The remarkable growth of the city can easily be seen by a comparison of the two pictures. The picture taken in 1900 shows Broadway looking north and the big house on the left was built by Jim Sleeper, now county assessor. A close inspection of the foreground will show two teams at work on what was the start of the Spurgeon M. E. Church south.

NOTED HEALTH AUTHORITIES
SCORE 18-DAY DIET AND ALL ITS ALLIED REDUCING FADS

With the advent of the summer season the craze for reducing diets has swept the country. Seekers after "girth control" are following one or another of the countless dietary schemes that have been outlined.

Because the truth about these reducing diets has been contested by fanatics, who loudly proclaim the value of benefits to be derived from their use, and the conservatives, who do not believe pounds can be removed healthfully and rapidly, NEA Service, the United Press and The Register have asked authorities to discuss these diets from the viewpoint of medical science.

Explaining how the hot days make the silly season, Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the journal of the American Medical Association and the foremost writer on medical topics in this country, tells, at the request of NEA, of a butcher, provided with an 18-day diet by a careless doctor, who ate the first nine days' rations at a single session. He tells also of a Chicago hostess, who, anxious to please her dinner guests, called each one of them to know which day of the 18-day diet they had reached and served each of them with the materials scheduled for that particular dinner.

NEW SANTA ANA
FIRE STATION IN OPERATION

Santa Ana now has the protection of a new fire company and a new combination pumper and hose wagon. The Sycamore street station, which has just been completed, was formally accepted last night by the city council and the fire underwriters' report on the test of the new Seagrave pumper, yesterday, was accepted at the recommendation of Fire Chief John Luxembourger.

The entire membership of the council, headed by Mayor Frank Purinton, and accompanied by other city officials, made a run to the new station, which will be known as headquarters No. 1, on the new pumper after the council meeting had adjourned, last night, and inspected the latest addition to the city's property.

Eight men have been added to the personnel of the city fire fighters to provide a crew at the new station. Chief Luxembourger announced today. The new "smoke eaters" are Louis Peterson, former Santa Ana policeman; Charles Roemer, former Visalia fireman; Philip McKay, formerly with the Exide Battery company; Lincoln Ausmas, former Edison company employee; Claude H. Maret, formerly connected with the Bartlett service station; Albert Garthe, mechanic; Paul Wheeler, former employee of Van Dien-Young company, and George E. Best. Peterson and Roemer will be stationed with the headquarters company as hosemen.

In addition to the 750-gallon-per-minute pumper at No. 1 station will be the squad car, in charge of T. D. Miller and R. R. Raymond, who will have charge of rescue and salvage work. Other officers and men at the new station will be Chief Luxembourger, Assistant Chiefs John Lacy and Sid Kimball, Fire Marshal Boyd Sleeper, H. M. Lee and M. C. Moore, engineers.

The new station will contain offices of the fire department and all records of the department will be maintained in this station. The first floor is used for offices and engine room, while eating and sleeping quarters and a clubroom for the men occupy the second floor. A hose tower is part of the building and here hose may be properly drained and dried after use. All appointments are modern and the station is the latest word in equipment and construction for the purpose to which it is to be put.

Chief Luxembourger announced today that with the enlargement of the force, W. R. Brown and Theo Lacy had been appointed to the rank of captain. The men will alternate for day and night duty in this capacity at No. 4 station.

Triplets Studying
In Orange County
Business College

Anyone pausing to survey the new fall class in the Orange County Business college would be inclined to rub his eyes and then seek the services of an oculist, fearing that he was seeing things—not double, but triple. For he would gaze upon three pretty girls as alike as the proverbial three peas. They are the famous "Anaheim Triplets," the Misses Reona, Ramona and Orena Bever, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Miles E. Bever, 204 South Ohio street, Anaheim.

The triplets have entered business college for the course in business efficiency, and the president, Ralph L. Van Vorhees, and his staff of teachers, are finding it difficult, indeed, to distinguish between the three. The sisters are just 18 years old and were members of the June, 1929, graduating class of Anaheim Union high school, where they were prominent in all school activities.

Two men appeared before the city council, last night, over the bus transportation situation that will develop with the discontinuance of operation of the Pacific Electric buses. The electric railway line now has a petition before the state railroad commission requesting that it be permitted to discontinue the operation of its bus lines here and indications have been that it would be allowed by the commission and the city left without service unless some other plan were devised.

Possibility that the Pacific Electric would be asked to withdraw its petition and assign its franchise to one of the two men who appeared before the council last night was seen as a result of the conference. The council previously had decided to advertise the franchise for sale upon its surrender by the electric system, but the new plan was suggested as being a better way out of the situation.

City Attorney Charles Swanner was instructed to get in touch with the railway company and ascertain if it would withdraw its petition and make the assignment to another operator. Under the terms of the ordinance granting the franchise to the Pacific Electric it has the right to take this action.

Two Before Council

C. H. Eckles, of Whittier, and L. J. Owens, Santa Ana contractor, were the men who appeared before the council seeking the franchise.

Eckles stated that he had been operating the bus system in Whittier since the Pacific Electric suspended service there four years ago.

Besides his widow he is survived by a brother, C. P. Kinyon, of Tustin, and a sister, Mrs. Alice Willis, of Aladdin, Wyo.

NATURE

NATURE ALWAYS DOES HER BEST TO GET YOU WELL, and when the "Coar," and Source of the ailment has been removed nature CAN and WILL SUCCEED. We (LIKE JOHN THE BAPTIST) "Prepare the Way," but nature is the "Master Physician."

A CLEAN INTESTINAL TRACT

IS the "Key" to HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS. Why? Because when the intestines are clean the blood stream is cleansed, and PURE BLOOD means VITALITY and "PEP."

IMPURE BLOOD

When the intestines are "Clogged" poisons are absorbed and carried by the blood stream to all parts of the body, causing that "Muddy" complexion, colds, headaches, ulcers, growths, and 90% of all other ailments.

SURE RESULTS

THIS METHOD of removing the cause gets results in the most stubborn, chronic cases. WHY? Because it goes to the VERY HEART of the ailment, washes all TOXIC POISONS from the human sewer system, cleanses the blood stream, clears up all blood stasis, establishes a normal circulation of both blood and nervous energy. When every obstruction, to nature's healing forces, have been removed WHAT CAN YOU DO BUT GET WELL?

Workman-Nibel Wedding
Event of Past

A quiet wedding of Saturday night was that of Kenneth W. Workman, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Workman of 1805 Valencia avenue, and Miss Eleanor Nibel, daughter of Mrs. Mattie Nibel, that took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Damia Lopinto, 719 West Pine street.

The home was filled with quantities of flowers for the ceremony which was read by the Rev. George A. Warner, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

The bride's brunet loveliness was enhanced by the simple frock of deep red which she wore with harmonizing accessories. She carried a bouquet of lovely roses to complete her striking costume.

Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Workman left for San Diego where they will make their future home. Mr. Workman is employed there by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

Mr. Workman is a graduate of the Santa Ana high school and he has made his home in this city for the past six years. His wife came here two years ago from Berkeley and she attended the Berkeley high school.

MARCELL LYLY

Alluringly new is the Marcell Lyly turban that lifts its black felt self off Milady's forehead and fits very snugly, in the season's eye-revealing manner. A new version of the popular tricolor scheme is exemplified by the use of black, red and white velvet ribbon, plaided in a striking Tartan design. This velvet makes a smart sailor's knot low on the left side, with the ends flaring out in the fisherman's hat silhouette.

CHURCH CLUBS FRATERNAL WOMEN~SOCIETY~THE HOME WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

I believe it was to a popular member of royalty, gone hence these several years, that the world attributes the saying that "it isn't what you do that matters so much, it is being caught at it."

We might apply the same saying to our physical shortcomings; people just love to talk about their operations in all their grisly details, and they love to have their friends say, "my, you don't look bit well, you must take care of yourself," and the complacent invalid takes off his interesting aura of near-invalidism and gives it a surreptitious shine with his elbow.

These are the kind of ailments we keep decently covered, but when it comes to hair, teeth, skin, weight and all of our outward and visible appearance—THAT is another story! Do we invite pitying criticisms acent the poor condition of our teeth, on hair going gray or slowly taking its bow off the back of shiny bald heads, an increasing overweight or wrinkled skins?

WE DO NOT? We take those things into the cellar and bewail our manifold misfortunes!

There isn't much you can do about it, is there?

Except to see that YOUR boy and girl starts early enough in the game to avoid any interesting operative post-mortems.

The WOMAN'S DAY
by ALLENE SUMNER

The notorious Dr. Snook murder trial at Columbus, Ohio, is exhibiting the difference between male and female moral ideas as that difference is rarely exemplified—not only the difference in moral ideas, but all sorts of differences.

In the first place, it was women who hampered at the courtroom door demanding seats, driving perspiring bailiffs wild as they sought to get by him. Some call it woman's "morbid curiosity."

Those with a broader vision say that woman's curiosity about a supposedly upright husband and father who admitted keeping "a love nest" for a campus co-ed, and who hampered her to a pulp and cut her jugular vein when the situation got too hot for him, is not libidinous interest so much as woman's preoccupation with the humanly personal, unlike the male's concern with things rather than people.

THE "ISSUE"

Anyway, Dr. Snook and his attorneys indicated their recognition of woman as a stern defender of monogamy and a fierce judge over all those who deviate from it when they fought for days to exonerate every woman from the jury. Even the most meek, placid, tender, seemingly gentle women were ejected for one cause or another, for the individual man inherits the group male conviction that social morality as we know it is a woman-made and a woman-enforced thing.

A husband who will deceive a wife was the thing at stake here to women, rather than a man who killed a woman. Theora Hix, the dead co-ed, is not here to be avenged so much as Mrs. James or garlic, two cups of vinegar and one-half cup of brown sugar. Let cook in this mixture for an hour.

Lift the ham out of its bath and let dry. Cover it with a thick paste made out of water and flour mixed thick enough to stick to the ham. This paste must be put all over the ham and should be almost an inch thick.

Place the masked ham in a roaster and let it bake until the mask has hardened, then put in a little water if the ham is on the cooking tray, otherwise not. Cover tightly and bake in a medium oven 30 minutes to the pound. When the ham is cooked slip a knife under the end of the paste mask and peel off both mask and skin of the ham.

While the ham is cooling a bit make the finishing mixture: drain the can of pineapple, mix with the sugar and cracker crumbs, sprinkle the surface of ham with pepper and over the fat side and down the sides as far as possible put on the pineapple glaze. Put into a hot oven until cooked a golden brown.

A slice cut one-eighth an inch thick and having a circumference equal to a tea saucer is worth 100 calories. Isn't much, is it? Good things seem to come that way unfortunately.

Poor Clowny sure was mighty scared, but think how luckily he fared. The horse had kicked him and the ball was sailing through the air. In just a moment then both went right through an opening in the tent. An elephant then caught the ball. 'Twas well that he was there.

The elephant then stood up high and shortly heard Clowny cry, "Hey! Put me down I fear I'll fall. Oh, don't swing me around. Of course I'm glad you caught this ball, but holding me's not nice at all!" And shortly Mister Elephant put Clowny on the ground.

The other Tinyes then ran near and all began to loudly cheer. "You're really very clever," shouted Scouty, with a smile. "The little kids inside the tent laughed loud as through the air you went. We thought, when you first started, that you'd travel for a mile."

Said Clowny, "I'll admit I'm good. I'm sure there's none else who could do clever things that I do." This made all the Tinyes boo! "You always get yourself in dutch," said Carpy, "Cause you boast too much. I know a lot of people who are just as good as you."

Just then the wind began to blow. The people all had left the show, and Clowny said, "I sadly fear a storm is on the way." The wind blew harder. Then the tent puffed out until the poles were bent. "Hey! Everybody run!" the Tinyes heard somebody say.

So off they dashed just soon enough, 'cause with another sudden puff, the biggest tent tipped over and from tent poles soon was free. It ruffled wildly in the breeze. The Tinyes scampered toward some trees. They hardly stopped to look back, being scared as scared could be.

- In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.
- Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

KGO TO OFFER SPECTACULAR SHOW PROGRAM

Hero And Villain Will Walk Boards In Radio Program

KHQ will release two unusual programs tonight, both originating in the studios of KFRC, the Don Lee station in San Francisco. One program, from 8 to 9 o'clock, will be an old-fashioned melodrama. Do you remember the good old-fashioned ten-twenty-three melodrama where you used to kiss the villain, hold your breath while the fair heroine's life was in danger, applaud as the hero arrived and saved her "just in the nick of time"? Those were the good old days and in this first Jack and Helen novelty program they are going to be revived. The play is entitled, "The Old Home-stead," or "The Midnight Express."

Between 9 and 10 p.m., KFRC will originate an abbreviated rendition of the immortal love tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," using as material lines from Shakespeare's classic drama, combined with some of the beautiful lyric music of Gounod's operatic version.

'Sally' Numbers Will Be Feature Of Whiteman Hour

An hour of tuneful dance music is forecast by the Old Gold-Paul Whiteman program as announced for tonight, 5 to 6 p.m., coast, from KMTR and over the Columbia Broadcasting system.

A recent group of waltzes, "Vagabond Lover," which has been exceedingly popular in the Whiteman rendering, a whole group of "Sally" tunes and a group of old and tender favorites are among the offerings. There will be vocal interpolations by Bing Crosby, baritone, and the Cheer Leaders Quartet, and Harry Von-zell again will be the guest announcer.

SPEECH READY FOR ENDURANCE TEST TAKEOFF

fuselage and fly alongside as

Speech comes over the field.

The flight will be timed and checked in every particular by a representative of the National Aeronautical association, who is expected to be Joe Nickrent, of Los Angeles. A barograph, which will show the altitude of the plane every instant of the flight, will be carried by Speech in the plane to make his record attempt authentic.

The tests made yesterday show that the ship, with a one-third capacity load, made the takeoff in 10 seconds, requiring a run of 555 feet. With one-half load the time was 14 seconds and the distance 750 feet. With two-thirds load the time was 16 seconds and the distance 1200 feet. This load was kept in the air 45 minutes to check fuel consumption.

If the weather permits the start Friday noon, as now planned, Speech hopes to be "up in the air" until about noon Sunday.

HEALTH EXPERTS SCORE 18-DAY DIET

one-half head lettuce, one half grapefruit, coffee.

Second Day

Breakfast: One half grapefruit, coffee.

Lunch: One orange, 1 egg, lettuce, 1 slice Melba toast, tea.

Dinner: Broiled steak (plain), one half head lettuce, 1 tomato, one half grapefruit, tea or coffee.

Third Day

Breakfast: One half grapefruit, coffee.

Lunch: One half grapefruit, 1 egg, 1 lettuce, 8 slices cucumber, tea or coffee.

Dinner: One lamb chop (trim fat before cooking), 1 egg, 3 radishes, 2 olives, one half grapefruit, lettuce, tea or coffee.

"Melba toast," teh doctor explained, "is merely very thinly cut bread toasted in a slow oven." He further analyzes the three days in detail:

"One half grapefruit provides about 100 calories, some vitamin A, more vitamin B and still more vitamin C. Its general effect in the body is alkaline. It also provides some mineral salts. A smaller grapefruit will give 75 calories. The coffee, if taken without cream or sugar, provides little or nothing except the stimulation of its caffeine content, about 1/2 grains to each cup.

"One egg provides 75 calories; it is rich in vitamin A and B and contains considerable D. The six slices of cucumber give 10 calories, some mineral salts, some vitamin B and C. The Melba toast removed means about 150 to 200 calories. The radishes are helpful for spice and variety.

"Hera obviously is a diet which provides well under 1000 calories per day. Most of us eat ordinarily around 3000 calories. On such a diet with the average amount of work one is bound to lose weight, perhaps too rapidly. The best authorities insist that any loss over two pounds per week for the average person is not healthful."

As to the Hollywood diet, Dr. Jaffa said:

"Personally, I do not approve of this diet. I would say that before anyone starts on a diet such as this, or any other faddy diet, he should by all means consult a competent physician. If more people contemplating weight reduction would follow this practice, the fatty diets soon would be eliminated."

there records of the present system, but owing to a peculiar system of register reading he was unable to tell over which routes the losses were occurring. He asserted that he would cover more streets than the present service does and felt that he could give satisfactory service.

Eckles told the council members that if he secured the franchise he would put three new busses into service, with bodies built by O. H. Egge, of Santa Ana, on G. M. C. chassis. The busses would carry about 25 passengers. He stated that the busses would be about two-thirds the weight of those now in service, which would result in economy of operation.

Eckles indicated that he probably would curtail the service after 7 p.m., as he stated most persons used their own cars after that time. He also stated that fares probably would remain at about the same level as they are at present with the possibility of a slight increase. Members of the council indicated that they would be amenable to an increase in fares, as it was evident some move of this nature was necessary.

Owens told the council that he planned to use light type busses with from 15 to 17-passenger capacity and that he would be in position to start service within 24 hours after the Pacific Electric withdraws.

California's foremost health authorities are quoted in a special dispatch to The Register by Homer L. Roberts, United Press staff correspondent. Roberts declares that "if you reach for a grapefruit instead of a sweet" at meal time these days, you may be flirting with the undertaker without knowing it.

Drs. Dickie, Jaffa Quoted

Dr. Walter M. Dickie, director of the state department of public health, and Dr. M. E. Jaffa, chief of the state division of food and drugs, were the authorities quoted by Roberts.

"It's entirely unscientific," Dr. Dickie said of the new diet. "It specifies no amounts of foods to be served, except occasionally an egg or a glass of milk. Therefore it is virtually impossible accurately to compute the amount of calories the diet provides."

He also insists that all the 18-day diet does is to remove the starches and sugar from the food intake and substitute grapefruit, extremely low in calorie value.

Roberts, in introducing Dr. Jaffa, presents him as one who has several times trained his guns on the fat, varnishes reducing fats of the day. Among those Jaffa lists as just as foolish are the graham bread fat, and the sour milk fat.

The vegetarian fat, the no-meat fat, the vitamin fat, and the bran or roughage fat.

As to the Hollywood diet, Dr. Jaffa said:

"Personally, I do not approve of this diet. I would say that before anyone starts on a diet such as this, or any other faddy diet, he should by all means consult a competent physician. If more people contemplating weight reduction would follow this practice, the fatty diets soon would be eliminated."

CHAPTER XLIV

The Indian thrust a copper dagger into Vilak's hand. "Take," he whispered. "White man good. Mabini, keep Mabini from die. Mabini white man's slave. Try see white man. Many times—wait outside window. But always soldiers come. Mabini have to run away. White man take dagger. Good dagger. Sharp. Kill. Kill bad people. White man. Soldier come again now. Mabini go." He crawled off into the red-silhouetted obscurity.

With the dagger Vilak quickly completed the cut in his thongs. "Wish this chap could have gotten to us a week ago," he grunted. "Doesn't help us much now. Would have been through in a few minutes anyway."

His body was now free. But he made no attempt to disengage the loosened cords around his limbs, only moved his arms slightly to place the dagger in Nunnally's eager hands. "Cut yourself loose, but don't stir. Lie just as you are. We won't be moving for a while. I've got something of a plan. Not a marvelous plan or a sure one by any means. Quite doubtful, really. I've been racking my brain all day, and can't get it to function. But since the plan's all we've got it's worth a try. At dawn Batalagos will go into the temple to receive the first days of the sun alone. He'll do it every day of the festival. This dawn we'll try to be there with him."

The old man severed the fetters at his wrist. Furtively he tried to return the dagger to his friend.

Vilak pushed his hand away. "Keep it," he whispered. "I've got a better weapon." He began twisting one of the two rings on his finger, a seal ring of conventional pattern. The top screwed off. A large black stone was exposed, half human, half bird. Like the grotesque idol with three minute claws protruding. The claws glistened brightly in the firelight.

"It's D'Albentara's ring. I put the stone in this new mounting and used the time-worn trick of hiding it by wearing it in the most conspicuous place I could; on my finger. He looked everywhere for it but there."

Fifteen minutes passed; half an hour; an hour. Vilak made no move to go. The child on the stone a few yards away began to cry lustily.

Its lamentations subsided to a whimper, then died away. A troop of yellow spotted marmosets floated gracefully over the crackling fire, then wheeled off as if in sudden flight. Two black beetles began crawling over Nunnally's body. With a scarcely perceptible movement of his hand, he brushed them away. "Isn't it a good...er...time to escape now?" he whispered, his eyes constantly on the sentinel who was gazing piteously to and fro some twenty yards away. "The place is almost...er...deserted."

Just the time not to escape. We'd be missed in a few minutes and caught. We'll wait till the courtyard fills with people again and their interest is concentrated on something else. Then whatever we do won't be noticed. That's an axiom."

The moths fluttered back to the fire; one by one they dropped into the flame. A few floated gracefully away. The crowd commenced to drift slowly into the court once more and Batalagos reappeared in the pavilion. There was another dance. Then D'Albentara, beside the chief, clapped his hands. As they had done the day before, the multitude fell to the ground and lay there groveling, their eyes fixed on the east. Batalagos began waddling toward the temple.

"Now's our chance," Vilak whispered. He crawled out of his thongs and slipping noiselessly to the ground, crept to the shadows along the outer edges of the court away from the fire and the altar where the prostrate welter of savages was concentrated.

The old man followed. They reached the ruined stone gallery bounding the court on all sides without being detected; then began skirting along its broken pillars toward the temple.

The chief slowly climbed the great steps in the center; they climbed quickly, at one of the sides where the gallery protected them from the eyes of the worshippers. Batalagos entered. They followed. They were in a long unroofed hall. On all sides rose ghostly shapes of great ruined stone figures, some with shadowy broken arms, upraised, some with fat squat bodies lacking heads. At one end was a broad, elevated stone. Toward this Batalagos made his way. The two others stealthily came after him.

He clambered awkwardly upon the stone and fell to his knees. A streak of crimson appeared atop the red mountain which the temple faced. Batalagos began a monotonous chant, flinging out his arms and striking his head against the stone round with the dagger in his hand.

The attack ended as suddenly as it had begun; yet as far as it was it had afforded Batalagos an opportunity to waddle frantically away. He wheeled also; saw racing across the steps from the gallery opposite him the stunted Indian of the enormous nose. The old man struck; the half-breed leaped past and hunkered himself upon Vilak. He snatched at the white man's hand which bore the ring. There was a struggle; his wrist scratched again. He toppled and began rolling lifelessly down the steps.

EVENING SALUTATION

It is no flattery to give a friend a due character; for commendation is as much the duty of a friend as reprobation.

—Plutarch.

CHICAGO'S POCKETBOOK TOUCHED

Chicago has been a plague spot of violation of law for quite a period of time. There is no question in the minds of many people, but that the attitude of its leading journal on law violation has been a factor in Chicago's shameful history.

The Chicago Tribune has been openly and flagrantly against the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act, attacking those who stood for its enforcement, and excusing and defending those who had violated it. It has done more, in our judgment, in breaking down the general morale of law observance than, probably, any other institution in this country.

The Chicago Tribune announces itself as the "world's greatest" newspaper. We do not know what its conception of the "world's greatest" is. If it could qualify under its own definition, it must have a definition that does not appear to ordinary mortals. It might be that its conception of the best newspaper is one that refuses to consider moral aspects of society, and considers only the commercialization of life.

A recent condition would lend color to this view. As the natural resultant of the general law violation, the secretary of the Employers' Association of that city declares that racketeering cost the city's business during 1928, $136,000,000. Here was something that affects the exchequer. Here is the treacherous and slimy hand of anarchy reaching into the cash box of business, and the Tribune changes its tune about law violation in a moment. And it declares:

"The evil this presents is a bleeding wound to the city's welfare, and every citizen pays something for it. It destroys its business vitality; it retards its business growth; it corrupts and demoralizes its government, the individual's life and property."

And then it closes with the remedy:

"It is time to show the full power of the law."

The only nerve that seems to be alive in the whole anatomy of the Tribune's body is the nerve that connects with the pocketbook. All other things are nil.

But the Tribune and Chicago have been sowing to the wind, and they are reaping what they are sowing. It is interesting to note in respect to the assaults upon business, that all newspapers in Chicago promptly joined hands to arouse public sentiment to protect the trade of the city as soon as the secretary of the Employers' Association gave out the startling facts. It may be a low motive to prompt people to action, but the only way that one can be sure of protection from violators of the law in any respect is to insure that no man or group shall have any special privilege to violate any law.

OUR INCREASING WEALTH

According to the statistics of one of our Economic Services, the wealth of the country will be increased by some $40,000,000,000 during the last six months of 1929. This is a prodigious sum, and indicates the tremendous resourcefulness of our country. And we are being told that we are only scratching the surface of things. The whole wealth of the country before the Civil War did not approximate the earnings expected during the next six months.

In this great prosperity more people are sharing than ever before. Wages are higher. The comforts and luxuries of life are increasing for the many. Measuring the average family as five, every family in the country rides in an automobile. As recently as ten years ago, the man who was fortunate enough to own an automobile had no difficulty in finding some one to ride out with him on a week-end. Now one who owns an automobile finds it difficult to get anyone to ride with him. Everyone, well-nigh, is supplied.

If in the midst of all this prosperity and spending we do not forget that we cannot eat stone and drink steam, but that there are higher enjoyments and greater satisfactions than the physical can give, we may become a great people. Otherwise we are destined to wither with the orgies that rotting Corinth saw. And our opportunities for self-destruction are infinitely greater. The wealth that lifts the souls of the citizens more than the roofs of the houses, as the old Stoic moralist said, is the true wealth.

THE TOLL THE WINDS TAKE

The United States of America, being a wide and broad country in which the winds have plenty of room to get up steam, pays an extremely high price for such meteorological disturbances as windstorms and tornadoes.

According to figures compiled by the Travelers Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., tornadoes and windstorms in this country took nearly 2000 lives and caused property damage of approximately $50,000,000 in 1928.

Oddly enough, the worst damage was done by disturbances that are classed as high winds instead of tornadoes. Windstorms took 1800 lives and caused $35,000,000 worth of damage, the rest being due to the more dreaded, but apparently less dangerous, tornadoes.

These dangers, apparently, are more or less inescapable. No one so far has suggested any good tornado or wind preventive.

MARVELS

It is almost reaching the point where a well informed person can only be well informed on the progress of matters in one particular sphere of human activity.

The Zeppelin is about ready to start from Tokyo on its last leg around the world. The women are in a great race driving their airplanes across our continent, and one of their number has been sacrificed. There is a non-stop flight from Spokane to New York and return, refueling en route. One almost hasn't noticed that the Swiss flyers left Lisbon for New York at 7:30 A. M. yesterday. They have not arrived at this writing, and they have hardly received notice. This is the first time that a non-stop flight has been made from Europe to New York, if it shall have been successful.

The news concerning air flights alone and keeping up to date on the facts concerning them is a good sized job for one man's reading. Of course it will soon reach the point where all the possible "stunts" have been performed for the first time, and the repetition of them will be so frequent that it will be hardly worth commenting.

So we might take up the development of the radio, of television, its development being so rapid that one has to run to keep up, and ocean travel and the automobile. One person can know but a fragment of what is knowable. It will take many men to be reasonably informed on all subjects.

TOURING AMERICANS

It is reported from Geneva that American tourists are visiting the Secretariat of the League of Nations at the rate of 600 weekly and that so far this season over five thousand have visited the headquarters, buying the literature put out by the League and being impressed.

And it is further reported that the American tourists are asking many surprising questions, among them being: Isn't the United States a member of the League? and Where can I apply to become a member of the League? and Where is the chair in which President Wilson sat?

Probably most of these people are the ones who are heard complaining that there is nothing in the papers but crime news and scandal, for those who so complain are the ones who don't read anything else in the papers.

EFFICIENCY AND FASHION

The present urge for pajamas as day-time costume for men in hot weather has had one practical outcome at any rate, to be noted while we anticipate the popularity of the reform. The chief of the fire department of Millstadt, Ill., says, logically enough, that pajamas can survive the noonday glare of public opinion they are suitable for the official night-dress of the fire department.

He has ordered the fire department laddies to wear their loudest pajamas when responding to night alarms. It will enable them to save time, keep cool, and be more easily discernible in the smoke and murk of a dark night.

This fire department chief couldn't be accused of conservatism.

Old Adam Still Puts Blame on Young Eves

San Francisco Chronicle

The changefulness of women's fashions is again coming in for blame on the score of upsetting business. One of the latest critics is a writer—a man, of course—in a business magazine of national circulation.

The writer pictures industries built up to meet the behests of modes in dress only to go flop as the result of a new dictum. He cites the ostrich feather business as an example. Knit garments for outer wear have boomed one line of trade but at the cost of the weavers. What silk did to cotton is an old story, and what rayon may do to silk is a ghost at the feast.

All of which may be true, but, in the words of the old ballad, "Don't blame it all on the girl!" Isn't woman's infinite variety after all a response to man's inconstancy and his demand for new charms? At any rate, do not changing fashions keep trade from stagnating and money from accumulating in socks and savings accounts?

Let no wise-cracking husband answer, "Yes; you're fifty per cent right."

A Knockout Bout

San Diego Union

Regardless of its outcome, the approaching Manhattan mayoralty campaign promises to treat that city to the liveliest political bout in years. Jimmy Walker, Tammany's candidate, may have his shortcomings as a working administrator, but on the campaigning side he is one of the best publicity-winners that Tammany has ever put into the ring. And the character of the platform upon which he will run is fairly well indicated by his party's stock reply to the charges of General Harbord and other leading Republicans that he is "Jimmy the jester—with the most expensive smile in the city's history." To all of this Tammany simply retorts, "What of it? He's a jolly good fellow."

But the man in the other corner provides both a surprise and a promise of real two-fisted action. For Congressman LaGuardia has suddenly appeared with the endorsement of the Republicans of New York. This unexpected alliance would be more surprising if it were not fairly evident that none of the regular Republicans has the nerve to enter the ring with Jimmy. But LaGuardia has repeatedly proved his ability as a rough and tumble fighter. In the house of Representatives, where everything depends upon party affiliations and organization, fighting alone he has become what Charles P. Stewart, the Washington correspondent, calls "single-handed—unquestionably far and away the most formidable man in congress."

Which promises that Jimmy Walker will be forced to find more than the "good fellow" slogan to beat off the attack of a man who is not only quite as young and colorful as himself but who carries a masculine punch that is somewhat lacking in the Broadway Idol.

Grubbing The Stump

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A WASTE OF SKILL
Prizefighters now find surgeons of great assistance in improving their punching ability.

I have growing respect for the surgical art:

I honor the deft fingered men
Who with saws and with scalpels can take folks apart

And put them together again.

No longer the cars that careen down my street

With terror I need apprehend

And dents I sustain, if we happen to meet,

I know will be easy to mend.

If a man should be born with an ingrowing nose

A surgeon can straighten it out;

With his knife he can swiftly dispose of the throes

That come with the pip or the gout.

A slip on the ice or a tumble down-stairs

With never a qualm one may view

For after a few scientific repairs

He'll be quite a bit better than new.

But why should a man with such marvelous skill

A prizefighter's tissues replace,

And build up his powers of punching until

He can bash in another man's face?

Why round out the torso and arms of one pug

And thicken and roughen his neck

Until, with a swift irresistible slug,

He can render another a wreck?

A far nobler pathway should surgery seek:

I hold it is foolish and wrong

In those who can easily succor the weak

To squander their art on the strong.

Of far greater service I think it would be—

And I'd like to observe it work out—

If they just could enable a slight man like me

To put a big prizefighter out.

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT

The drouth recently experienced in the Eastern part of the United States was only external, not internal.

WHY ASK RELIEF

The farmers are asking help of Congress, but the motorists who pass the farms always help themselves.

BUMPER CROP

A contemporary has an article about gardening in the cellar. It ought to be easy, nowadays, to raise rum blossoms there.

Who Should Regulate Prices?

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Is the general level of stock prices too high? Nobody knows. Even if it could be proved that stock prices are too high, the question would remain whether the Federal Reserve Board ought to try to regulate stock prices.

Everybody knows that the Board should not attempt to control the prices of anything else. Suppose the Board undertook to reduce the price of wheat? Or silver? The opposition would be loud and furious. Justly so.

What, then, can justify regulation of stock prices? It cannot be the large profits made by speculation in stocks. For, if that is reason enough, why not regulate prices of New York City real estate?

Or copper? The possible rate of profit through speculating in copper markets last year was higher than the average rate in stock markets.

To regulate prices of stocks is no more the business of the Board than to regulate prices of corn or ten-penny nails. Once the Board goes into the price-fixing business it will be overwhelmed with problems which the wisest body of men could not solve.

Back in 1920 the Board experimented with price-fixing by restricting the bank credit available to automobile dealers. A mistake, as everybody now sees.

Recently the Board made another mistake by undertaking to fix prices in the stock market. To reply that the Board was not trying to control stock prices, but merely trying to reduce the amount of bank credit used in buying stocks, is to talk nonsense. The most effective way to control the price of anything is to control the credit available for the purchase of that thing.

Control of the total volume of credit is a proper function of the Board. Control of the individual uses of credit is not.

REFERENCE POINTS

"Bettleness" or "worseness" of an act or policy may be more important than a theory of what is absolutely best or absolutely worst.

We seldom know or do what is absolutely best or worst.

But we must daily decide that one thing is better or worse than another.

Starting points are reference points.

Values are relative.

One man had a thousand dollars. Another man has one hundred dollars. Each of the two men lost one hundred dollars. How serious was the loss of a hundred dollars to each of these men?

It is clear that the loss of a hundred dollars was ten times as serious to one man as it was to the other.

Unless the total amounts of money possessed by these men were used as reference points, the loss of one hundred dollars would appear the same.

There is danger in conclusions drawn without due regard to sound reference points.

Reference points are fundamental to sound decisions.

In establishing reference points it should be remembered that the "Huh, huh," said Sonny without lifting his eyes, edging still closer to the edge of the porch as he built his tower.

Very gently, his mother folded her work very lightly she crossed the floor until she stood beside the little boy. "Come, son. Wiggle back on the mat. See. You are too near the edge of the porch and head over heels you will go in a minute."
